Two Important Challenges Drive Change

Inconsistent Use of Data at the Heart of Challenges

Lack of Visibility Leads to Micromanagement

Head of School spending time "in the weeds," insufficient capacity for "big picture" issues, long-term strategy

Team Spends Little Time Celebrating Quick Wins, Successes

Relentless pursuit of improvement leaves little room to recognize progress made, achievements

School in Brief: The Episcopal Academy

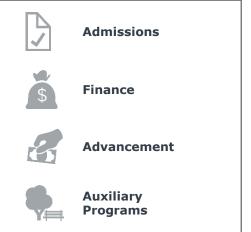

- Co-educational day school for grades Pre-K through 12 in Newtown Square, PA
- Founded in 1785, affiliated with the Episcopal Church
- Dr. T.J. Locke has been Head of School since July 2013

Communications Dashboard Includes Insights

Dashboard Can Go Beyond Data to Include Lessons Learned from Analysis

Positive Initial Feedback Sustains Momentum

Board, Administrative Team Benefit from Dashboards

Board-level Visibility

- Board now has access to right level of data to enable strong leadership without getting mired in details
- Well-thought-out dashboards cover key data in given area, enabling school leadership to proactively provide insight

Data-Driven Decisions

- Decisions informed by available data, trends
- Impact of changes easier to assess, track over time

Reduced Micromanagement

- Agreed-upon metrics provide complete picture of a given area, minimizing over-analysis of available data
- Administrators able to track, document improvements, share progress with team, head of school

Greater Transparency

- Greater visibility into performance, progress across teams
- Successes, progress celebrated regularly, maintaining team engagement

Future Opportunities to Better Use Data

Complete Data Picture

 Incorporate data from other sources, such as INDEX, into current dashboards; benchmarking data can be particularly valuable

Additional Dashboards

- Assess remaining aspects of school that could benefit from dashboard
- Goal should not be dashboards for the purpose of having dashboards

College Counseling

 Shift in college placements over time, regular questions on from Board prompt consideration of dashboard in this area

"A dashboard doesn't work in this case because [college admissions] is such a complex thing.

You can't look at it on just one sheet. It's hard to summarize everything on one dashboard, so we went with a fuller report."

T.J. Locke, Head of School, Episcopal Academy

Progress, Not Perfection

From 'we should have a dashboard' to the place where you have what you like, it's such a big journey... It's so easy to get trapped in 'we have to create the perfect system,' that you don't get anything done unless you spend a lot of money and a ton of time. This was an attempt very quickly to throw down what we care about in each of these areas and start tracking it, then refine it later. It's a way of jumping in the pool and getting wet without worrying about if you're an Olympic swimmer."
